

AN EXPERT IN CONSTITUTIONAL AFFAIRS.

Félix Mathieu

Political Scientist and Professor in the Department of Law at the University of Quebec in Outaouais

Biography:

Félix Mathieu is a political scientist and professor in the Department of Law at the University of Quebec in Outaouais, where he is director of the undergraduate law programs. He is also co-director of the Research Observatory on Quebec's Constitutional Issues within the Canadian Federation. From 2022 to 2026, he was co-director and editor-in-chief of the French-language section of the Canadian Journal of Political Science. He is the author of Les Nations fragiles : ces peuples qui confrontent la modernité (Boréal, 2024), La politique québécoise et canadienne : acteurs, institutions et sociétés (with Alain-G. Gagnon and Paul May, Presses de l'Université du Québec, 2025) and Bilan du gouvernement de la CAQ (2022-2026): 150 promesses entre virages et reversements (with Shanon Dinan, Dominic Duval and Lisa Birch, Presses de l'Université Laval, 2026).