Francis Verreault-Paul

Regional Chief, Assembly of First Nations Quebec-Labrador (AFNQL)

Biography:

Regional Chief of the Assembly of First Nations Quebec-Labrador, Francis Verreault-Paul is an Innu from the Pekuakamiulnuatsh First Nation.

While pursuing a high-level athletic career, Regional Chief Verreault-Paul remained committed to his academic studies, earning a Bachelor's degree from McGill University before completing a Master of Business Administration (MBA) at the University of Buckingham in England.

Raised in a family deeply rooted in the traditional Innu way of life, values, and culture, he is committed to carrying this heritage forward with his own family and through his leadership. Guided by these principles, he is dedicated to advancing the well-being, self-determination, and prosperity of First Nations communities.
